SCIENCE CURRICULUM (HS)

- ▶ This course is designed to give students a basic understanding that the behavior of the objects in this world is governed by the properties of their atomic and molecular structures. Students understand that chemistry is central to their everyday lives; from what they eat to the clothes they wear to the car they drive. They gain experience with laboratory procedures and proper scientific methods of gathering data and reporting results. They also learn how God has created this universe of small invisible particles and reveals his character, attributes, and purposes to us through His creation.
